

I'M SILENT

i watched your body breaking by the window Betrayed and beaten fallen to a chair
A seizure of your soul to live without permission Your way to end a life that wasn't fair

i think you're so fantastic, don't even know your name
It's so surreal isn't it?
Another East End game
i wonder if you'll change?

i stroked your cheek, i begged you to start breathing i held your head as if you were my blood
Your consciousness came close to viewing me before you
The crowd around us justified how they could judge

How nice of them to take the time to judge...

i think you're so fantastic, don't even know your name
It's so surreal isn't it?
Another East End game
My life has changed within it
i'll never be the same
i think you're so fantastic, i'll give you all the blame
Don't even know your name
i played your game
i wonder if you'll change?

I'm silent...

i think you're so fantastic, don't even know your name
It's so surreal isn't it?
Another East End game
My life has changed within it
i'll never be the same
i think you're so fantastic, i'll give you all the blame
Don't even know your name
i played your game
i wonder if you'll change?